ORDERED BY THE GENERAL EXECU-

TIVE BOARD OF THE K. OF L.

All Employes of the Adams Express Company in Eastern Cities May Quit Work.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 .- The World this morning says: 'All employes of the Adams Express Company in Eastern cities may stop work in two days. The general executive board of the Knights of Labor ordered this sympathetic strike yesterday. It is said that the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association stands behind the strikers and that the switchmen in the Jersey City yards on the Pennsylvania railroad may go out. Such action, of course, would seriously impede the loading of express cars. Master Workman Kelly says the men taking the strikers' places are wholly incompetent and that the company has advertised for drivers with five years' experience. He says, too, that many merchants and shippers have promised to forward their goods by other lines than the Adams. The strikers said yesterday they would fight to the last, and they were in good financial condition. Their executive board said the express company was running empty trains over the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads to delude the other companies into the belief that the Adams is doing a large business. The strikers are quiet. About two hundred pickets are watching the Adams company's routes, and the pickets in turn are watched by Pinkerton men.

On the other hand, President Welr, of the Adams, says the company can easily get along without its old employes. "There is no possibility that our men in other cities will quit work because of the misguided action of a few men in New York," Mr. Weir added.

> opponents. The Democratic party of 1892 was not a party that believed all that it uttered, and its various votes were not given by men all of whom were Democrats. And we are reaping to-day the consequences of that insincerity. In 1868, at New York, the Democratic party, under the leadership of that most loved of our American statesmen, George H. Pendleton, of Ohio, inserted in its platform the heresy that in some form or another the government of the United States had the power of the issual of paper money to pay its debts not according to the honest tenor of the understanding between the creditor and the debtor. (Applause.) A great mistake was then made, and it has followed us from that day to this. No parties can in the end survive-I do not hesitate to say no party ought to survive-that does not place as the very foundation stone of all its policy honest money in the discharge of obligations. (Applause.) This is the very first postulate of all political honesty, of all governmental integrity. No paltering in a double sense and no equivocations by the words of a statute; no attempt to make uncertainty by the mere language of the obligations; but an honest compliance with the known understanding between creditor and debtor by which the government which owes an obligation pays it in such a way that all creditors can trust it; all brave men defend it; all honest men love it. (Long continued applause.)

We stand against all that is in the Chicago platform, precisely as our ancestors for hundreds of years have stood against all that is contained in it. It is the old, old fight. (Applause.) We believe in the freedom of press, that men may print their opinons freely; in the freedom of the rostrum, that men may utter their convictions openly; in the freedom of public opinion, that it may be enlightened by intelligent discussion; in the freedom and sanctity of the courts, that the humblest litigant may be heard; in the freedom of the ballot, that has taken the place of the bayonet. For the American experiment, when you reduce it to its ultimate analysis, is that the ballot takes the place of the bayonet and the power of voting takes the place of violence all sorts and kinds. (Applause.) We believe in peaceful remedies. We believe in the laborer. We have stood by the laborer. But all grievances must find peaceful remedies, and we will not condone any man or set of men who preach violence as one mode of redress for wrong. (Applause.) * * * And in every part of that platform there crop out the same troublesome heresies which the law and order people from all time have had to meet. "All the commentary that is to be found to that Chicago platform is in the more courageous and ampler platform of the Populist convention at St. Louis. (Applause.) You see in the Chicago platform the half-ripe fruit. The blossom is in all the heresies of anarchy and despotism in the past; the half-ripe fruit is in the Chicago platform; the not quite ripe fruit is in the Populist platform of St. Louis. The result is in the utter destruction of our institutions that will come if that party gets into power. You need not tell me that it is a regular Democratic nomination I walk not into the cesspool of that miserable policy under any pretense or blinding whatever. It had no power to make a pledge of Populistic and half Republican policy in the name of the Democratic party. (Applause.) It had no power to take hostile principles and to pledge the Democratic people to carry those hostile policies into statutes. which is the very warp and woof of its substance and form; for by coming up here this day, with no personal offices or honor, or rewards to gain or to give-if you mean anything it is not merely the enunciation of a platform, but it is in the execution of a purpose that Kentucky shall not vote for Mr. Bryan at the coming election. (Applause.) "I am not here to make personal charges or to use personal names. That seems to me not to come up to the high level of the occasion. It is not as to whether Mr. Bryan is the nominee. I have nothing to say to Mr. Bryan that is not kindly and deasant. I take it for granted that he believes what he utters, for the capacity to believe wrong things in undeveloped and emotional youth is extremely great. (Applause and laughter.) I have naught to say that would in any way reflect upon him. I think he believes that platform and as he believes it, if he be an honest and courageous man-and I shall not doubt that-he will use the whole power of that office to make that platform the policy of the American government and thus believing out of compliment to his honesty, thus believing in justice to his good character, by the help of God we shall never have an opportunity. (Applause.)

"I have come this afternoon to commune with you-to unite with you in a declara-tion of principles. Let us be moderate in that declaration. Let us be firm in it. Let us lay down the Democratic doctrine. We are as much for freedom of trade as we were before the Chicago convention betraved the Democratic party. (Applause.) We will announce, in the old language of the Democratic party, that every man has a right to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow, and that that carries with it as a necessary corolary the right to sell the produce of that sweat wherever he pleases, at the highest price, and buy what his family needs wherever he can, at the lowest price. (Applause.) We unite here, in spite of all opposition, upon the second great necessity of a prosperous country—that for which he trades shall be the best

That little child will have interwoven in all his being these great lessons and we will project ourselves into that future for good and only good." (Long continued applause.) Chairman George M. Davis made a brief speech in calling the convention to order, and Lieutenant Governor J. R. Hindman, who was made temporary chairman, created a good deal of amusement by a humorous speech which did not go deeply nto political issues. After the speech of Colonel Breckinridge, which was in response to repeated and persistent calls, the districts were called for committeemen and the convention took a short recess until

At the noon meetings the district delegations selected the following electors: First District, R. T. Tyler, of Fulton: Second, George Givens, of Henderson; Third, James Symmes, of Bewling Green; Fourth, R. M. Wathen, of Marion; Fifth, Thomas W. Bullitt, of Louisville; Sixth, William Snyder; Seventh, Judge J. Q. Ward, of Bourbon county; Eighth, Jerry Sullivan, of Madison; Ninth, E. B. Willhoyt, of Carter; Tenth. W. W. McGuire, of Morgan; Eleventh, H. C. Baker, of Adair.

DELEGATES TO INDIANAPOLIS The following district delegates to the Indianapolis convention were also chosen; First district, F. M. Clemens and H. Buchanan; second, John F. Lockett and Robert Craig: Third, Judge C. W. Milligan and J. C. Johnson; Fourth, W. J. Dean, jr., and H. A. Watkins; Fifth, George M. Davie and J. M. Atherton; Sixth, W. H. Mackoi and W. F. Peake; Seventh, Judge Thomas H. Hines and Professor Yeager; Eighth. W. W. Stephenson and L. C. Willis: Ninth. J. H. Pierce and W. S. Montgomery: Tenth, J. T. Sayler and Judge Rodney Haggard; Eleventh, O. H. Waddell and J.

The convention reassembled at 5:15, bu immediately took a further recess until 7:30 p. m. to allow the committees more ization was effected with Judge J. O. Ward as chairman. The following delegates at large to the Indianapolis convention were Governor S. S. Buckner, A. J. Carroll, W. C. P. Breckinridge and William F. Browder.

The platform, which was unanimously adopted, aroused frequent outbursts of enthusiasm. It was a severe arraignment of the Chicago platform, which was declared to be "revolutionary and destructive of Democratic principles." The candidates were denounced, Mr. Bryan as a Populist and Mr. Sewall as a subsidized builder and a high protectionist. It contains a strong presentation of the principles to enunciate which the gathering was called, namely, the maintenance of an honest and stable currency on a gold standard; a tariff for revenue only; low taxation and economical expenditure, civil-service reform; the duty of the government to protect the citizen and his property from lawlessness; an independent and unintimidated judiciary; the condemnation of "special privileges, sumptuary legislation, governmental favoritism, bounties and other forms of paternalism and Populism." a hearty indorsement of the national Democratic administration Every mention of Cleveland or Carlisle greeted with an outburst of applause. On motion of Colonel Breckinridge an amendment to the platform was adopted urging the nomination of Governor S. B. Candidate Bryan's Itinerary Rearranged-Speech to Be Made at South Bend, Ind., Sept. 3.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20-At both the Democratic and Populist headquarters serious alarm is felt over the situation in Idaho, where the news dispatches indicate that the Democrats and Populists are trying to effect a fusion which will leave out the silver Republicans. The managers at both headquarters consider that this attempted combination at the expense of the silver Republicans is a violation of the spirit of the free-silver campaign, which seeks to combine all the silver forces, and they fear its effect on the silver Republicans of other Western States. They believe the different forces should combine on equitable and just terms and effect a division such as was made in Minnesota and Chicago platform and erase the word it would be especially ungrateful in Idaho, because their refusal to recognize the silver Republicans involves the defeat of Senator Dubois. The latter is looked on by both the Democratic and Populist managers as one of the great central figures in the bolt to pause before they go further. But we of free-silver Republicans from the Repubhave no quarrel with them. If they will lican party. To his instrumentality, also, continue it is their right. The executive committee of the Populist party has adjourned subject to the call of the chairman. It has accomplished all that could be done at the present time in arranging for headquarters here and branch headquarters in Chicago. It was decided that J. R. Sovereign should be assigned to the Chicago headquarters, which will be under the management of Mr. Washburn, of Massachuetts. Chairman Butler will be in charge here and will give his whole attention to the campaign. Mr. Butler will be assisted by Secretary Edgerton, who will be here during most of the campaign. C. H. Pirtle, chief of the Senate document room, will be in charge of the sending out of the documents. Mr. Butler said to-day that the class of literature which was to be sent get had not yet been decided on. As far as possible documents which can be franked will be sent out. These will include speeches by Populists in Congress and some of Tom Watson's will be among the number selected. Some of the literature being sent out by the Democrats and also by the silver committee will be distributed. Chairman Butler said this mornng that the committee was, of course, embarrassed for want of funds and Secreta Edgerton said the committee must rely on voluntary subscriptions as much as possible. "We have chipped in," said Chairman Butler, "to pay our expenses thus far, We have no rich men to make large contributions for campaign expenses. I expect we will have to make a campaign like others we have made in the South, where we have managed with very little money. Chairman Butler will enter into correfree-silver leaders in various parts of the country at once and endeavor to effect an djustment of all existing difficulties which will bring the supporters of silver and Bryan into harmonious action. The silver party and the Populist party to-day moved nto headquarters with the Democratic party in the Wormley Building. Vice Chair-man Stevens, of the Silver party, said that the silver branch headquarters in Chicago would be every bit as important as the headquarters in Washington and would headquarters in Washington and would have charge of the campaign in the Western States. Chairman Faulkner, of the Demo congressional campaign committee, has gone to Martinsburg to participate in a meeting there to-night. Among the callers at headquartersto-day was Secretary Hoke Smith, who had a long conference with Chairman Faulkner and Secretary Gardner. The Democratic committee have decided to circulate among farmers portions of Bourke Cockran's speech, especially the portion where he made reference to "professional farmers."

A letter from Princeton, Ill., received at headquarters announces that a free-silver Swedish Republican club, with a membership of 150, has been organized there. The Democratic committee will pu an extract from the message of Pres Grant, sent to Congress Jan. 14, 1875, anouncing his approval of the act for resumption of specie payments. The object is to show that President Grant did not know that silver had been demonetized by the act of 1873. The extract is as follows: 'In fact, to carry out the first section he act, another mint becomes a necessity, With the present facilities for colnage would take a period probably beyond that fixed by law for final specie resumption to coin the silver necessary to transact the business of the country. There are smelting furnaces for extracting the silver and gold ores brought from the mountain terri-tories in Chicago, St. Louis and Omahathree in the former-city-and as much of the change required will be wanted in the Mississippi valley States, and as the metals to be coined come from the west of these for transportation of bullion from either of the cities named to the mint in Philadel phia to New York city amount to $4 for each $1,000 worth, with an equal expense for transportation back, it would seem a fair argument in favor of adopting one or more of those cities as the place or places for the establishment of new coinage facil-

J. R. Sovereigh, who is to be, with George F. Washburn, for the Populist committee in Chicago, has decided to organize a bureau of labor and run it in connection with the campaign. He will engage a large number of speakers and send them into the doubtful States. Ten speakers have already been secured, and Mr. Sovereign is in correspondence with others. He intends to organize Western labor men in the interest of silver. Mr. Sovereign expects to move the headquarters of the K. of L. to Chicago during the campaign and its employes will assist him.
